Lucks.

13 Jan.

My dear Geoff & Susan.

I know how sad you will be when you receive our letters with the very sad news. It has indeed been an awful shock & most of all to poor Mother & Brian. We cannot decide he will not wake up again & greet us in his cheery way. He looks so beautiful & so very happy. We had a little service in the drawing room where he is, when Mr. Hammond came yesterday and it did help us. We feel very happy to think he did not suffer any pain, and really it hurt me very often lately to see how he was failing and after any extra exertion his breathing was very jerky but we had not the slightest idea his heart was at all weak. The Dr. said we must be thankful he did not become unconscious. He was so sympathetic & kind everyone loved him. I am so sorry Susan never met him.

All our loves we feel so glad Brian came home. Waddy got such pleasure out of his talks with the boy & they were together such a lot. It seemed so lovely that it was Brian to whom it fell to see to everything for him at the end, although it must have been very trying for him. Dorothy is coming from Woods today. We have had such lovely letters. - wish you could see them. Poor Mrs.

Pander was very upset as Waddy came home with him the night before. Mr. Hammond spoke so beautifully about Waddy & I've never heard a reference made by name before. He said he would be terribly missed.

We have been talking the plans for the future over & we can't get tell for anything.
Brian is very good & even suggested he & mother sh. have a house next to go & live together but mother feels she could not leave the Aunties for good. They will miss Waddy very much as they did so much to help to make his life happy since he has been ill.
